About Atacama Mining District

Atacama Region: A Mining Powerhouse

The Atacama Region is Chile's second most important mining district, with a long-standing tradition in mineral production. It currently leads the nation in the number of exploration projects, highlighting its exceptional geological potential. Centered around Copiapó, the region is home to major operations like Candelaria and a dynamic network of medium and small-scale copper producers. With increasing investments in sustainable mining and resource development, Atacama is a key player in the future of Chile's mining industry.
